SITUATION SUMMARY

Cal OES Activation Status

State Operations Center	Inland Region EOC	Coastal Region EOC	Southern Region EOC
Level 1	Level 1	Level 1	Level 1

Vanuatu 7.2 magnitude earthquake

On 04/03/16 at 0124, a magnitude 7.2 quake struck the Vanuatu Islands. Per the National Tsunami Warning Center there is no tsunami danger for the California Coast.

- Coastal Counties notified via CALWAS.
- EDO, CDO, SDO notified via e-mail.

BART Services Restored, Contra Costa County

- Normal train service resumed between Pittsburg and Concord at Contra Costa County BART stations on Saturday.
- BART service was suspended between the Pittsburg/Bay Point and North Concord-Martinez stations for more than two weeks due to an electrical glitch.
- BART officials hope to continue the service through the Monday morning commute.

Flotopia Event, Isla Vista, Santa Barbara County

- Santa Barbara County will be closing Isla Vista Beach on Saturday 04/02/2016 until Sunday 04/03/2016 due to the “Flotopia” event.
- Per the Santa Barbara County and Community Services Department:
 - Following the Floatopia event of 2009, the beaches at Isla Vista were left strewn with trash and debris.
 - This large scale event with thousands of participants had no provision for the health and well being of the public, including no facilities for human sanitation or refuse collection.
 - The County of Santa Barbara, therefore took action to close the Isla Vista beaches for a similar event in 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014 and 2015.
 - Due to the implementation of beach closures, the party has moved to the streets of Isla Vista causing the name of the event to change to Deltopia.
 - UCSB has scheduled activities throughout the next couple days for students in lieu of participating in the Deltopia event.
 - The closure is to protect public health and safety.

SITUATION SUMMARY

Weather of Concern

Northern California

- Warm temperatures are expected this weekend with mainly dry weather across the region.
- A few showers and thunderstorms will be possible today along the Northern Coastal Range.

Southern California

- Long period west and south swells are expected to bring elevated surf to many beaches of southwest California through Sunday.
- Most beaches in Ventura and Los Angeles counties can expect surf heights of 3 to 6 feet.
- The Santa Barbara South Coast will see max waves of 3 to 5 feet on southwest facing beaches.
- On the Central Coast, surf heights of 4 to 8 feet with max sets to 10 feet are likely, with the largest surf on west and Northwest-facing beaches.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Medford Weather:

The upper ridge that brought us the warm weather over the last few days is edging east this morning, and a cold front is approaching. We will start out with sunshine over much of our land area today, but clouds will increase, especially over the mountains where instability produces cumulus similar to yesterday. Unlike yesterday, we may actually get some showers out of the cumulus this afternoon, and there is still a slight chance for a thunderstorm. Instability is still fairly marginal for storms, but moisture and upper level forcing are better than yesterday. The main area where thunderstorms are possible will be from the Cascades and Siskiyou Northeastward.

Eureka Weather:

An approaching upper level low pressure system moving toward the Pacific Northwest will produce a very slight chance for mountain showers or a few isolated thunderstorms again this afternoon and evening over the Trinity Alps. Rain chances increase tonight and early Monday morning primarily North of Mendocino County as the associated rain band moves on shore.

Reno Weather:

Temperatures will remain mild into early next week with afternoon Zephyr breezes expected. A weak disturbance may cool temperatures a few degrees and provide some increased clouds, but overall precipitation chances will be minimal early in the week. Dry and warmer conditions will persist through Thursday with wetter returning for the end of the week into the start of next weekend.

San Francisco Weather:

A dry upper trough is forecast to move inland to our North late today but this trough will have little impact on our weather other than slight cooling today. Strong high pressure will build over the West Coast during the first half of the week and offshore flow will develop by Tuesday. These developments will result in much warmer temperatures by Tuesday with record highs possible by Wednesday. Cooling is expected late in the week as an upper level low approaches the California coast. Showers are possible late Thursday night into Friday with unsettled weather persisting into next weekend.

Sacramento Weather:

A chance of showers is expected over the northern mountains through Monday. Then warm and dry into Thursday with locally breezy conditions. Next chance of precipitation arrives Friday.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

High pressure will continue over the region through the middle of next week. A series of low pressure centers will cross the region late next week and into next weekend.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

High pressure aloft will keep temperatures above normal through Monday with night through morning low clouds and fog in some coastal areas. Well above normal temperatures are likely for Tuesday and Wednesday as offshore flow develops. A couple of upper lows will bring cooler weather late in the week with a chance of rain from late Thursday into the weekend.

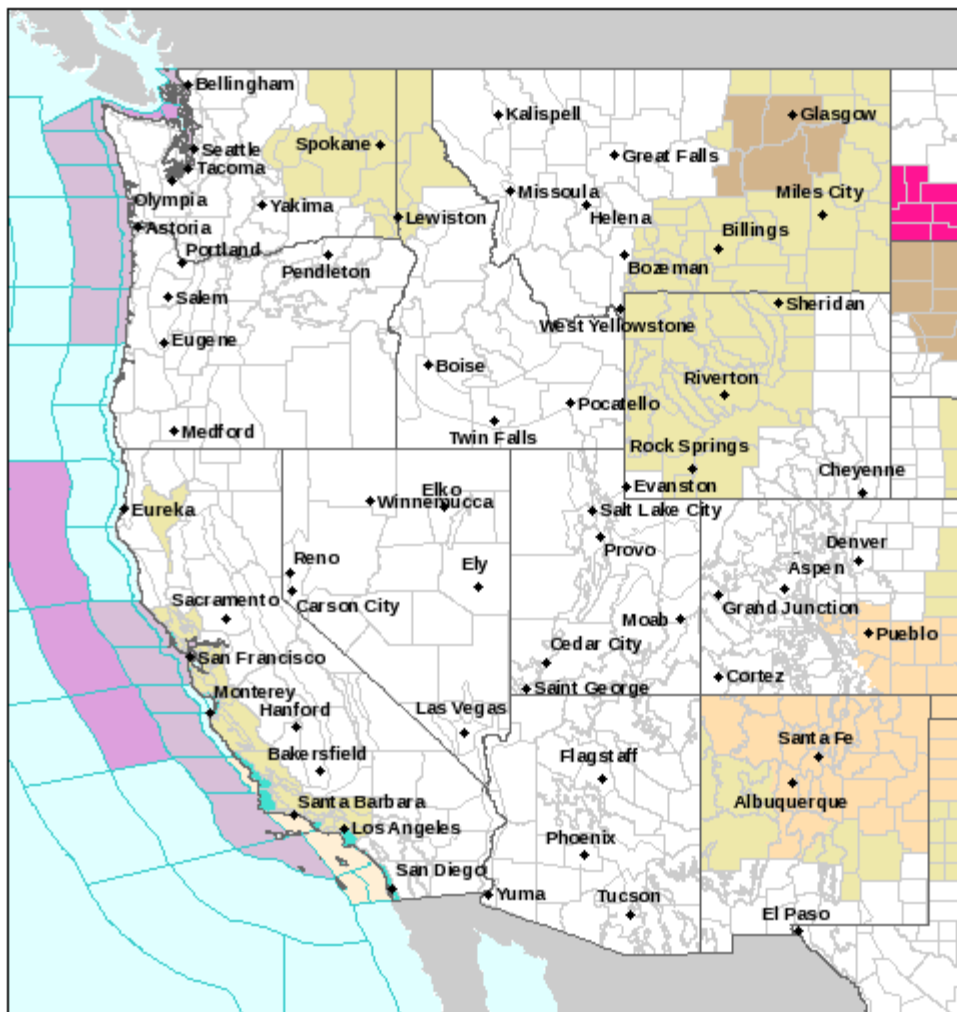

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Warm and dry weather will continue through Wednesday with high temperatures around 10 degrees above average for inland areas. Tuesday and Wednesday are expected to be the warmest days. The marine layer and weak onshore flow will keep coastal areas cooler through Monday with areas of night and morning low clouds and fog. For Tuesday and Wednesday weak offshore flow will push warmer temperatures towards the coast. For Thursday through next weekend a pair of pacific low pressure systems will bring cooling more clouds and chances for showers.

Southeast California Weather:

Much warmer than normal temperatures will continue to increase through the first half of the week with most lower elevation communities seeing highs well into the 90s by the middle of the week. An unsettled wet weather pattern may finally return to the southwest by the end of next week yielding somewhat cooler and cloudier conditions.
